Citation for Royal Television Society - North Regional Centre Award (2010)

"Tonight's recipient has an extraordinary track record, but also an unassuming and modest manner which belies an immense talent and contribution to the broadcasting industry.

Having won a phenomenal number of awards regionally, nationally and internationally, our winner actually stopped entering our regional awards in after having won 13 times throughout the years – more than anyone else in the history of our awards. He is a remarkable role model, having demonstrated that choosing to live in our region doesn't prevent a TV practitioner from achieving world-class standards and pursuing personal projects and programmes with great success.

No one else in this region has achieved so much in such a broad range of work, from documentaries in war zones, filming under cover, to shooting at the coldest place on earth, from directing, photographing and editing drama to creating jobs and developing technology."
